

Pascal Pujol

University Hospital of Montpellier, Montpellier, France

Dr Pascal Pujol gained an MD and a PhD at the University of Montpellier and held a postdoctoral position at the University of Texas at San Antonio.

Dr Pujol is now Professor of Medicine at the Montpellier Faculty of Medicine and President of the French Society of Predictive and Personalized Medicine. He heads the department of Cancer and Genetics at the University Hospital of Montpellier and is a consultant at “GCS Hauts de Seine” for cancer genetics (Hartmann clinic). Dr Pujol has previously held the positions of Deputy Director of the Medicine UFR in 2012 and Vice-Dean of the Faculty of Medicine of Montpellier; He is the President of BRCA-France association.

He is co-author of more than 150 original publications. Since 1996, he conducts research work in different INSERM units and CNRS. He has coordinated several therapeutic trials at the national level.

